The U.S & European stock markets Flow sharply down today as investors' fears over a recession forced a broad market selloff.

The fears grew larger as some central banks around the globe followed the Federal Reserve Bank's suit in raising rates. The big surprise was the Swiss National Bank increased interest rates by 25 basis points; after having not increased rates in 15 years, also the Bank of England followed suit, raising rates by 25 basis points.

The thought in investors' minds is that after being so late, the central banks' raise rates are too fast and may cause sharper than expected global growth or lead to a Recession.
